Orchestrating Your Wealth

Market Overview

To describe market behaviour during August as catastrophic might be melodramatic – unless you are a Turk or Argentinian of course. To describe it as concerning understates the powerful forces at work in currency and equity markets. There is simply no place for structurally weak economies – only the strong will survive. Any sign of political indiscretion (and that is a loaded term) and structural economic weakness was dealt with swiftly and mercilessly during August.

The Argentinian peso has fallen over 50% this year, the Turkish lira 42.7%, the Brazilian real 19.5%, the rand 15.5%, the Indian lira 10.1%, and the Indonesian rupiah 7.9%. Perhaps now you understand why I suggested that recent market activity has been catastrophic. Quietly in the background, the US dollar continued to rise. The oil price rose 11.7%, the price of gold, platinum, and copper declined 2.2%, 4.1%, and 3.8% respectively. The prices of soft (food) commodities declined far more.

The US equity market rose 3.2%, while the UK, German, and Swiss markets declined 4.1%, 3.5%, and 2.2% respectively. During August the S&P Mid and Small cap indices rose 3.0% and 6.0% respectively. US equity markets were propelled by the tech sector NASDAQ rising 5.7%. The Chinese and Hong Kong markets fell 5.3% and 2.4% respectively, while the real damage was seen in the Russian market, down 6.9%, Turkey and Greece 4.4% and 4.2% respectively, and Brazil 3.2%. Against this background, the MSCI World index monthly return of 1.0% and the -2.9% MSCI Emerging Market index return is understandable.

“To achieve great things, two things are needed; a plan, and not quite enough time.”

- Leonard Bernstein

Local market returns

Turning to local markets, the All Share index produced a return of 2.3%, which looks good on the face of it, but of course in dollar terms was extremely poor (-8.5%). The rand-hedge sectors of Basic Materials and Industrials (thanks to a large weighting in offshore return-driven companies) produced positive monthly returns of 5.6% and 1.9% respectively. The Financial sector flew into the headwind of the weak rand, and ended only 0.3% higher, which is remarkable given how sensitive the index is to a weak rand. The All Bond index was under pressure throughout the month, ending down 1.9%.

Monthly fund returns

During August the Maestro Growth Fund's NAV increased by 5.7% versus the Fund's benchmark which increased by 2.4%. The Maestro Equity Prescient Fund rose by 6.6% versus the 2.3% rise of the All Share index. The Prescient Income Provider Fund returned 1.4% against its benchmark return of 0.6%. The Prescient Bond QuantPlus Fund increased by 0.7% versus its benchmark increase of 0.5%. Central Park Global Balanced Fund increased by 9.8% in rand terms versus the 12.6% increase of the rand benchmark.

Units in linked insurance policies should be considered as medium to long-term investments. The value of units may go up as well as down and past performance is not necessarily a guide to future performance. Unit prices are calculated on a net asset basis, which is the total value of all the assets in the portfolio including any income accruals and less any permissible deductions (Brokerage, Securities Transfer Tax, VAT, Auditor's fees, Bank Charges, Custodian fees and the annual Management fee) from the portfolio divided by the number of units in issue. Fluctuations or movements in exchange rates may cause the value of any underlying international investments to go up and down. Forward pricing is used. Maestro Investment Management (Pty) Limited and Prescient Life Limited are members of the Association for Savings and Investments of South Africa (ASISA).
