Market Overview

Global equity markets got off to a strong start to 2017 with most emerging and developed markets showing robust performances in January.

The MSCI Emerging Market index gained 5.5% with stronger emerging market currencies supporting the performance as the US dollar index declined 2.6%. The Turkish equity market gained 10.4% albeit on a 7.3% decline in the lira. The Brazilian market rose 7.4%, Hong Kong rose 6.2% and India 3.9%. The MSCI World index rose 2.4%, although it had been higher during the course of the month. The US equity market rose 2.0% and the German market 0.5%. The pound's strength put pressure on the UK market which declined 0.6%.

Global bond yields declined, helping the Bloomberg Barclays Global Aggregate Bond index (previously the Barclays Capital Global Aggregate Bond index) to rise 1.1%.

The weak dollar spurred commodity prices higher, which provided underlying strength to resource sectors in virtually all equity markets. Precious metal prices were strong with platinum, silver and gold rising 9.0%, 6.5% and 5.8% respectively. The oil price fell 0.7% during the month. Copper was particularly strong amongst the base metals, gaining 8.1% while aluminium rose 7.2% but nickel fell 1.4%. Iron ore continued its phenomenal run gaining 4.8% during the month and rising 96.8% over the past year. The Baltic Dry index, a reflection of the price of moving raw materials by sea fell 16.8% during January, however over the past year it has risen by 152.4%.

Units in linked insurance policies should be considered as medium to long-term investments. The value of units may go up as well as down and past performance is not necessarily a guide to future performance. Unit prices are calculated on a net asset basis, which is the total value of all the assets in the portfolio including any income accruals and less any permissible deductions (Brokerage, Securities Transfer Tax, VAT, Auditor's fees, Bank Charges, Custodian fees and the annual Management fee) from the portfolio divided by the number of units in issue. Fluctuations or movements in exchange rates may cause the value of any underlying international investments to go up and down. Forward pricing is used. Maestro Investment Management (Pty) Limited and Prescient Life Limited are members of the Association for Savings and Investments of South Africa (ASISA).
