Market Overview

July was, by all accounts, a frustrating and rather unprofitable month. However, on closer inspection, despite all the negative headlines most global equity indices ended the month higher. The rand was firm, too, which provided substantial headwinds for investors with a large part of their portfolio offshore. On the local front, most indices ended the month lower, but by relatively small amounts, while local bond markets had a bumper month on the back of the firmer rand.

The MSCI World index, a proxy for developed markets, rose 3.1%, while the MSCI Emerging market index rose "only" 1.7%, hinting at the trauma currently being experienced in a number of emerging markets. China was weak, with investors there taking fright at the prospect of a prolonged and deep trade war with the US. Although the Shanghai Composite index rose 1.0%, the Hong Kong market lost 1.3%, bringing its year-to-date return to 4.5%. The Shanghai Composite index has lost 13.0% so far this year. In stark contrast, the Indian market rose 6.2% to a record high, having risen 10.2% so far this year.

The Brazilian equity market rose 8.9% and Russian 1.4%. Amongst developed markets, the US equity market was strong, rising 3.8%. The German market rose 4.1%, but Japan managed a gain of only 1.1%. The NASDAQ index rose 2.2%, thereby underperforming the broader US indices and highlighting the relatively tough time tech shares had during July. The S&P Mid and Small cap indices rose 1.7% and 1.9% respectively.

Local market returns

Turning to the South African equity markets, the rand was again the feature of the month, although, unlike last month when it declined sharply (-7.6%), during July it firmed 4.6% against the dollar. Its strength lent support to the Financial Index, which rose 4.7%, but the Basic Materials and Industrial indices fell 1.4% and 2.0% respectively. The Large cap (Top40) index fell 0.3%, the Mid cap rose 0.5%, and the Small cap index fell 1.7%. The firm rand helped the bond market post a positive return - the All Bond index rose 2.4%, bringing its year-to-date gain to 6.5%. The All Share index has declined 2.0% so far this year, having ended July down 0.3%.

Monthly fund returns

During July the Maestro Growth Fund's NAV decreased by 2.3% versus the Fund's benchmark which increased by 0.1%. The Maestro Equity Prescient Fund decreased by 2.4% versus the 0.3% decrease of the All Share index. The Prescient Income Provider Fund returned 0.5% against its benchmark return of 0.6%. The Prescient Bond QuantPlus Fund increased by 2.0% versus its benchmark increase of 2.4%. Central Park Global Balanced Fund decreased by 5.7% in rand terms versus the 2.7% decrease of the rand benchmark.

Units in linked insurance policies should be considered as medium to long-term investments. The value of units may go up as well as down and past performance is not necessarily a guide to future performance. Unit prices are calculated on a net asset basis, which is the total value of all the assets in the portfolio including any income accruals and less any permissible deductions (Brokerage, Securities Transfer Tax, VAT, Auditor's fees, Bank Charges, Custodian fees and the annual Management fee) from the portfolio divided by the number of units in issue. Fluctuations or movements in exchange rates may cause the value of any underlying international investments to go up and down. Forward pricing is used. Maestro Investment Management (Pty) Limited and Prescient Life Limited are members of the Association for Savings and Investments of South Africa (ASISA).
