Market Overview

Following the trauma of last month's market behaviour, especially within emerging currency and equity markets, September seemed relatively tranquil. If the 0.4% and -0.8% MSCI World and Emerging market respective returns are anything to go by, one can be forgiven for thinking markets were relatively calm. Of course, it is never that simple.

The Japanese equity market led the gains with a 5.5% monthly increase, while amongst the larger emerging markets, India led the losses with a 6.3% decline. There were the odd emerging market outliers, such as Turkey and Russia, which rose 7.8% and 9.1% respectively (the Russian market is always firm when the oil price rises), while Greece lost 5.2%. The Chinese equity market rose 3.5%, following its 5.3% loss in August. There was also notable differences in the market capitalization (size) movements, with the US large cap index (S&P500) rising 0.6% but the S&P Mid and Small cap indices falling 1.2% and 3.3% respectively. Global bond markets were relatively calm but ended the month weaker; the Bloomberg Global and US Aggregate bond indices lost 0.9% and 0.6% respectively.

The dollar was relatively stable, which allowed some respite following the emerging market currency carnage last month. The rand firmed 3.5%, the Russian rouble 2.8%, and the Turkish lira 10.2%, but the Indian rupee lost 2.1%. Within the commodity space, we also saw a mixed bag of performances. Perhaps the most notable was the 6.8% increase in the oil price, but the respective 5.1% and 3.5% rises in the iron ore and copper prices were also notable.

"To achieve great things, two things are needed; a plan, and not quite enough time."

Local market returns

With respect to the SA equity market, the downtrend that has been in place for a couple of years continued. The All share index shed 4.2%, led by the large cap Top40 index, which fell 4.7%. The Mid and Small cap indices lost 3.7% and 1.7% respectively. Notwithstanding the firm rand, the Financial index ended September 2.0% lower while the Industrial index lost 7.7%; dragged lower by 41.9%, 15.1%, 14.1% and 11.1% respective monthly losses in Aspen, Imperial, Bidvest and Richemont share prices. The Basic material index rose 1.1%. Spurred in part by the firm rand, the All Bond index rose 0.3%.

Monthly fund returns

During September the Maestro Growth Fund's NAV decreased by 3.6% versus the Fund's benchmark which decreased by 2.8%. The Maestro Equity Prescient Fund fell by 4.4% versus the 4.2% decline of the All Share index. The Prescient Income Provider Fund returned 0.4% against its benchmark return of 0.5%. The Prescient Bond QuantPlus Fund increased by 0.5% versus its benchmark increase of 0.2%.

Central Park Global Balanced Fund decreased by 7.3% in rand terms versus the 3.5% decrease of the rand benchmark.

Units in linked insurance policies should be considered as medium to long-term investments. The value of units may go up as well as down and past performance is not necessarily a guide to future performance. Unit prices are calculated on a net asset basis, which is the total value of all the assets in the portfolio including any income accruals and less any permissible deductions (Brokerage, Securities Transfer Tax, VAT, Auditor's fees, Bank Charges, Custodian fees and the annual Management fee) from the portfolio divided by the number of units in issue. Fluctuations or movements in exchange rates may cause the value of any underlying international investments to go up and down. Forward pricing is used. Maestro Investment Management (Pty) Limited and Prescient Life Limited are members of the Association for Savings and Investments of South Africa (ASISA).
