Market Overview

So many variables weighed on global markets during September that it is hard to touch on all of them. Let me jump right in: clear indications from the US Federal Reserve that the end of very loose monetary policy is in sight resulted in bond yields rising, and bond prices falling. That in turn supported the US dollar, which rose 1.7%. The strong dollar rippled across multiple asset classes. Add to that rapidly escalating energy prices around the world, reduced growth forecasts for major economies, the usual pandemic wobbles, increasing evidence of severe supply chain constraints, and the results of some really unintelligent decisions (such as the Brexit decision in the UK) – the “investment cocktail mix” was toxic.

The Bloomberg Global Aggregate Bond index declined 1.8% while the MSCI World and Emerging Market indices both declined 4.3% in September. The Hong Kong equity market fell 5.0%, the US market fell 4.7% and the NASDAQ 5.3%. The German equity market fell 3.6%, while Switzerland lost 6.2% on the month. The Indian market rose 2.1%, the Chinese market 0.7%, and the Russian market, rose 5.6%. Brazil fell 6.6% and Turkey 4.5%. The (US) S&P Mid and Small cap indices declined 4.1% and 2.6%.

On the currency front, just about all currencies gave up ground against the dollar. The commodity complex bore the brunt of concern about the pace of economic recovery, supply chain issues, and the strong dollar. Apart from the oil price, which rose 9.4% and the coal price, which rose 34.5% reflecting the energy crisis, the iron ore price fell 22.5% on the month, the palladium price fell 21.6%, and copper 6.2%.

Returns for periods ended 30 September 2021

Turning to the South African investment markets the All Bond index fell 2.1% and the All Share index -3.1%. The Basic Materials, Financial, and Industrial indices posted returns of -9.8%, 1.7%, and -0.8% respectively; the Financial index rose despite the rand losing 3.9% against the dollar – financial shares are usually weak when the rand loses ground. The Fund’s offshore exposure supported the return, given the weak rand. Afrimat and BHP (Billiton) followed the steep decline in the ore price, falling 19.6% and 15.8% respectively. Cashbuild declined 10.4% and the Satrix Resources ETF 9.1%. On a more positive note, Discovery rose 6.3%, Renegen 6.6%, Transaction Capital 8.5%, Afrocentric 12.2% and Aspen 38.2%.

Monthly fund returns

During September the Maestro Growth Fund's NAV fell 1.3% versus the Fund's benchmark which decreased 2.2%. The Maestro Equity Prescient Fund fell 0.9% versus the 3.1% decrease of the All Share index. The Prescient SA Income Provider Fund rose

0.9% versus its benchmark return of 0.3%. The Prescient Income Plus Fund rose 0.1% versus its benchmark return of 0.5% The Prescient Flexible Bond Fund fell 2.5% versus its benchmark which decreased 2.1%. Central Park Global Balanced Fund fell 3.7% in rand terms versus the 0.6% increase of the rand benchmark.

Units in linked insurance policies should be considered as medium to long-term investments. The value of units may go up as well as down and past performance is not necessarily a guide to future performance. Unit prices are calculated on a net asset basis, which is the total value of all the assets in the portfolio including any income accruals and less any permissible deductions (Brokerage, Securities Transfer Tax, VAT, Auditor's fees, Bank Charges, Custodian fees and the annual Management fee) from the portfolio divided by the number of units in issue. Fluctuations or movements in exchange rates may cause the value of any underlying international investments to go up and down. Forward pricing is used. Maestro Investment Management (Pty) Limited and 27Four Life Limited are members of the Association for Savings and Investments of South Africa (ASISA).
